
Circuit breaker fuse in China in Albania

Why are fuses a cost-less solution for overcurrent protection?

Fuses are cost-effective compared to other protective devices such as circuit breakers, making them a cost-less solution for overcurrent protection. Fuses provide quick protection against electrical defects by rapidly interrupting circuit current in the case of an overcurrent condition.

Which type of Fuse is suitable for AC 50Hz?

This series of cylindrical fuse is suitable for AC 50Hz, rated voltage to 500V, rated current to 125A. It is mainly used for protecting the electrical circuit against overload...

Why is a fuse used instead of a circuit breaker?

A fuse is an electrical safety device that protects an electric circuit from excessive electric current. Fuses are destroyed during overload conditions. When reasonable to do so (and economically sensible), circuit breakers are used instead because they are not destroyed during overload conditions.

When does a Type C fuses trip a circuit?

Type C fuses trip circuits when the current exceeds the rated one by between five and ten times- i.e. at 100-500 amps for a 20amp device. The definition of a D-type fuse is a miniature circuit breaker that trips when the current exceeds the rated level by between ten and 20 times.
